Ilhan Omar has been a busy little twitter bug since she was tossed off a Minnesota State House committee for comments she deemed anti-Semitic, but that doesn't mean she's stopped tweeting.

Omar and Rep. Rashida Tlaib are the two first Muslim women in Congress, but it seems they're about to take over the House floor. She tweeted out a picture of two women staring down the Senate Majority Leader, Mitch McConnell, referring to him as "Cocaine Mitch." We don't know whether or not that will happen, but Omar is eager for it to happen. She tweeted out a picture of her and Tlaib taking over the House of Representatives, "Cocaine Mitch" included. Get Breaking News Delivered to Your Inbox She followed that up with this quote from President Barack Obama, "If you're tired of a politics that only gives you more of the same, then you've come to the right place." My favorite is a set of nine young boys, when do you think Melissa might be ten? .By May 11, 2012 The Center for Constitutional Rights today called for an international investigation into the circumstances surrounding the disappearance of journalist and U.S. Army veteran James Foley, who was kidnapped in Libya and murdered last week by ISIS. Since his kidnapping, journalist Nicholas Kristof has been outspoken about Foley and his colleagues who have been kidnapped, and the CCR said in a statement that the media attention to Foley and his colleagues is vital to his and their families and to bringing forward the questions of who was responsible for his murder. The CCR said, "With the murder of James Foley, ISIS has inaugurated a new phase in the 'war on terror,' targeting journalists and others who have been critical of their actions.

‘War on terror’ rhetoric does not legitimize these atrocities, and the international community must send a clear message that this new brand of terrorism will not be tolerated.”

The statement by the CCR also noted the repugnant nature of ISIS’ actions and the international condemnation of their kidnapping of journalists and assault on Mosul in Iraq, and the failure of the Iraqi government to hold such criminals to account. “James Foley embodied the conviction that the best people make the most passionate and courageous criticism of
